

Independent Education Union of Australia Launches Campaign for Quality Education

On 4th October 2013, in support of Education International Unite for Quality Education and World Teachers Day, members of the Independent Education Union of Australia (IEU) launched its Quality Education campaign at the National Carillon in Canberra.

The theme of the IEU Campaign "Quality Education; What we do; Who we are" highlights crucial role that teachers, and those who support teaching, play in the delivery of quality education.

Ring out for Quality Education

Along with the National Carillon, Church Cathedral bells in Perth, Adelaide Melbourne and Brisbane rang out on the day, to celebrate the work of teachers.

IEU Quality Teaching Framework Policy

As part of the Quality Education Campaign, the IEU launched its Quality Teaching Framework Policy which outlines the fundamental elements to delivering quality education.

Campaign Continues

The IEU campaign will be conducted over 2014, and will also involve a coordinated approach to promoting best practice within our schools, publicly profiling the work of our member through a National Photography Awards and nationally campaigning for the appropriate resources to continue the delivery of quality education as well as internationally campaigning with other education unions.

The Swan Bells in Perth also participated in sending the celebration across the Indian Ocean as other education unions campaigned globally for World Teachers' Day.

International union colleagues from NASUWT (UK), Mike Lyons President and Jude Glover Education Officer and the Secretary General of COPE, Govind Singh joined with IEU members in the celebrations.
